YATES HAS HARD FIGHT ON TO-DAY

Friends of Governor Will Try to Capture Jersey County Republican Convention.

The Republican factions in Jersey County spent a busy day yesterday in trying to line up the delegates to the County Convention at Jerseyville to-day for or against Governor Yates. The sudden strength of Yates exhibited in the primaries of Saturday surprised the antis, and all the strength of the opposi-tion was mustered and set to work in the

and was mustered and set to work in the various townships.

The fight to-day in the convention promises to be one of the bitterest in recent years. The anti-Yates followers allege that the Yates adherents are trying to disrupt the party, and the friends of the Governor declare that they propose to have instructions for their favorite at all costs.

Word was received from Hamlin that he Word was received from Hamlin that he would positively be on hand to-day and make a speech in his efforts to secure the delegation. It was also whispered on good authority that the Yates crowd were planning to have the Governor appear suddenly on the scene to-day and play the event as their trump card and permit him to carry the delegation back to Springfield with him.

MASTER PLUMBERS

Trouble Involving Former Sheriff of St. Clair May Lead to Strike Complications.

John Kickham, former Sheriff of St. Clair County, and the president of the Central Heating and Plumbing Company of East St. Louis, has been expelled from the East St. Louis Master Plumbers' As-sociation, the initiation fees of which are

John Neary, North Fifth street the association in their decision to lock out the journeymen plumbers who are affiliated with the Building Trades Council. Several of the members of the Master Plumbers' Association yesterday advertised in the St. Louis newspapers for union plumbers who are not members of the Building Trades Council. Mr. Kickham has been notified by the supply houses with whom the members of the Master Plumbers' Association deal that they can no longer sell to him any plumbers' supplies. The expulsion of Mr. Kickham is part

The expulsion of Mr. Kickham is part of the troubles the plumbers, the master plumbers and the plumbers' laborers are involved in on the East Side. The plumbers' laborers, with the exception of those who are now employed by Mr. Kickham, are out on a strike for a raise in their wages from 12 to $2.50 a day.

This strike was called on January 1, and since then the plumbers have been without laborers. Some laboring work has been done by persons who desired plumbers' services, and in these cases the plumbers have been called off the work by business agents of the Building Trades Council, because it was not done by union laborers.

by business agents of the Building Trades Council, because it was not done by union laborers.

Last week the plumbers in four of the nine shops had been called out and this resulted in a meeting of the Master Plumbers' Association, which decided that no plumber who was a member of the Building Trades Council could work for them. John Kickham, as president of the Central Heating and Plumbing Company, would not agree to this as, he said, he had plumbers employed who were satisfactory to him and that as they were union men he would not discriminate. His case was then taken up and on his second refusal to act with the members of the association, he was expelled.

The houses with which the plumbers deal were then notified, so Mr. Kickham claims, and he will have to make arrangements to get his plumbing material from houses which supply the plumbers who are not members of the Master Plumbers' Association.

A well-posted union man said yesterday that a general strike might result from the plumbers' troubles. He said that it is very likely that the Building Trades Council would begin a vigorous campaign against the master plumbers who have barred the members of that association.

Girls' Dress, No. 208-Red and black is a warm-looking combination for winter wear and one usually favored by children-The dress shown here is made of bright red wool crepe, with black velvet and 9208-GIRL'S DRESS, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

The foundation is a fitted body lining that closes in the center back and is faced with cloth to a round voke depth. The back is plain across the shoulders and blouses well all around. The closing is made with small garnet buttons.

Three backward turning tucks extend from yoke to belt in front. The narrow front plait is trimmed with straps of velvet that cross and are fastened with small buttons. A plain lace collar completes the neck.

A fancy bertha collar finishes the yoke from the second plait to the center back. It is of lace, edged with velvet, and gives a drooping effect to the shoulders. One-piece bishop sleeves fit the arms closely from armhole to elbow and are very wide at the wrist, where the fullness is gathered and arranged on lace bands.

The skirt has a narrow panel front and full sides that reach to center back. It is attached to the body portion and finished with a band of velvet at the hem. The yoke, plait and front gore of the skirt are trimmed with black French knots.

Dresses in this style are made of cashmere, serge, fiannel, cheviot or covert and trimmed with lace velvet, silk or fancy braid.

To make the dress for a girl of 8 years will require three yards of material, forty inches wide, with one-half yard of lace. The pattern, No. 9208, is cut in sizes for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Boys' Double-brensted Russian Suit, No. 9197—Brown is one of the most fashionable colors this season. It is shown here in a light cinnamon shade trimmed with biscuit cloth and dark brown braids.

9197-BOYS' DOUBLE-BREASTED RUS-SIAN BUIT. 2, 4, 6 and 8 years.

The trousers are shaped with regulation inside and outside seams and fitted around the waist with small daris. They are attached to the lower edge of a one-piece body lining that fastens at the center back. This is faced with cloth to form a shield completed by a narrow neckband. The fullness at the knee is drawn in closely by means of an elastic passed through a casing near the edge.

The cost is adjusted with shoulder and underarm seams, fits well across the back and chest, but has considerable width at the hem. It closes in double-breasted style with silk cords and frogs.

A broad brown velvet belt draws the coat in closely at the waist and has a fashionable dip in front. The neck is finished with a cloth sailor collar that is square in the back and extends over the sleeves in a becoming manner. It is trimmed with three rows of narrow brown velvet ribbon.

The sleeves have comfortable fullness.

rimmed with three rows of narrow brown velvet ribbon.

The sleeves have comfortable fullness on the shoulders and are fitted with tucks at the hand. The tucks are stitched up part way to form cuffs. Suits in this mode are made of serge, cheviot fiannel and covert, and trimmed with contrasting material, or they may be made of one fabric and the trimming portion braided.

To make the suit for a boy of aix years will require two and one-quarter yards of material thirty-six inches wide with three-quarter yard for trimming and one-half yard of lining for waist. The pattern, No. 9197, is cut in sixes for boys for 2, 4, 5 and 8 years.
